The investments underlying this financial product do not take into account the EU criteria for environmentally sustainable economic activities.

The investment process takes into account sustainability risks and is based on our own and third-party analyses. To do this, the Manager uses its own methodology based on ESG ratings published by ratings companies, as well as other information provided by external providers. FINANCIAL RISKS:

Market risk: Asset prices depend on the performance and evolution of financial markets and issuers, which in turn are affected by the general state of the world economy and other political circumstances.

- Market risk due to investment in equities: derived from variations in the price of assets. Volatility means that the price can fluctuate significantly.
- Interest rate risk: Interest rate changes/fluctuations affect the price of fixed income assets. Rate rises generally have a negative effect on prices, while rate falls generally lead to price rises. The sensitivity of the changes in the price of these assets is greater the longer the maturity of the assets.
- Exchange rate risk: for investments in assets denominated in currencies other than the euro, due to exchange rate fluctuations.

Credit risk: relating to the issuer and/or the issue of fixed-income assets. This is the risk that the issuer will not be able to meet the payment of principal and interest when they become due. Credit rating agencies assign credit ratings to certain fixed income issuers/issues to indicate their likely credit risk. Issuers/issues with high credit ratings have low credit risk and issuers/issues with medium credit ratings have moderate risk. The low credit rating or the lack of rating determines the assumption of a high credit risk.

Liquidity risk: Investing in small-cap securities and/or markets with a small size and limited trading volume may deprive liquidity and negatively influence the price to sell, buy or modify positions.

Risks due to investment in financial derivative instruments: even as a hedge of cash investments, they entail risks, such as the possibility of imperfect correlation between the movement in the value of derivative contracts and the hedged items, as well as other additional risks due to the leverage they entail, which makes them particularly sensitive to variations in the price of the underlying and can multiply the losses in value of the portfolio. Likewise, trading in derivatives not contracted in organised markets entails additional risks, as there is no clearing house between the parties to ensure that the transactions are carried out correctly.

Investment risk in emerging countries: they can be more volatile than investments in developed markets. The risk of nationalization or expropriation of assets, and/or social, political and economic instability is higher in emerging markets; in addition, stock markets tend to have lower turnover, leading to a lack of liquidity and high price volatility.

Caution on the liquidity and non-refundable nature of the vested rights.

The payment of the benefit is only possible in the event of the occurrence of any of the contingencies or exceptional cases of liquidity provided in the Regulations of the Loreto Empresas plan. The value of vested rights in the event of mobilisation and benefits depends on the market value of the pension fund's assets and can lead to significant losses.
