Mutuality of the Airlines Industry

Results 2018

Loreto Mutua, MPS, mutualilty of the airlines industry and pension plan manager, closed the year 2018 with a return of -0.09%, according to the accounts approved in the General Assembly last Thursday June 27, a negative figure just a few hundredths. The mutual company also reported that the fiscal year ended with more than 24,500 mutualists and a net worth of 1,328 million.

However, the result does not cease to be valued in a positive tone, as it is one of the best in the set of retirement savings systems since, for example, pension plans fell on average -4.08%, the systems of employment fell by -3.20% and the Ibex 35 fell -14%.

In addition, Loreto Mutua continues to maintain a 15-year average return of 5.34% while the average employment system is 3.22% and that of pension plans is 2.54%, which reaffirms the great Loreto's path. Likewise the record of extraordinary contributions, both in quantity and in number, 1,446 contributions with an amount exceeding 3,400,000 euros. All this translates into a greater trust of the mutualists in the prudent and good management of the house.

The good moment of Loreto Optima, individual plan for all, which is awarded and recognized among others with the 5 * Morningstar stars, was also reinforced with the record of participants, surpassing the thousand for the first time and with heritage record, more than 32 million euros, which strengthens the satisfaction of the participants towards Loreto Mutua.

SAS Ireland and its group of pilots entrust us with the management of their retirement savings.

As a result of an agreement, the SAS Ireland group of pilots will join the Loreto Mutual, adding more than 24,000 people and becoming the entity chosen by the majority of workers in the airlines sector to manage their pensions.

Said SAS Ireland pilots will receive a salary contribution from the company that will be used to complete their future pensions. The agreement has been possible after the recently signed agreement.

Why choose Loreto Mutua.

Loreto Mutua, mutual society of the airlines sector and dedicated exclusively to the management of retirement savings, is supported by its specialization in the sector, its service and its profitability, after almost 50 years of activity, while, for its part, SAS Ireland demonstrates its commitment with the future and retirement of its employees.

Not surprisingly, Loreto's team continues to demonstrate its excellence in pension management, as revealed by some returns that are among the best, both for Mutuality and for the Loreto Óptima Individual Plan

Pension Plans for Everyone

Loreto Optima: Again among the top positions in the ranking.

Loreto Mutua continues this 2019 on the appropriate path, with more positive news, since it is confirmed that in the first quarter of the year, Loreto Optima Individual Plan, open to any investor, is again placed in the top positions of the national ranking of plans of pensions. According to Inverco data, Loreto Óptima closed the first quarter with a profitability of 2.26%.

At 3 years it is 8th and at 15 years a stunning 2nd position of the ranking (with 4.23% on average) in its category, of a total of almost 300 plans. This demonstrates the successful long-term strategy, as corresponds to pension products, which Loreto practices in its products.

However, according to the Morningstar financial platform, Loreto Óptima is rated 5 stars in virtually all categories.

It is an individual pension plan open to the public, in which the contribution is at the discretion of the participant, both the amount and the term and the form of income
